

ABOUT THE STATE

Happenings of Interest from Different Sections.

The Fort Drummer mills at Bennington resumed work this morning on full time.

Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Pollard observed their 60th anniversary at their home in Proctorsville Jan. 15.

Justin S. Ball, an army veteran, died Saturday at the Soldiers' home in Bennington. He was a native of North Bennington.

Farmers in the vicinity of Jeffersonville are already complaining of a shortage of hay. Very little is for sale and what is brings $30 per ton in the mow.

Lyman Powers killed a good-sized snake in the snow at Marlboro a few days ago, and a flock of wild geese was seen flying north one day last week by Marlboro people.

Mrs. Susan Spaulding, at the age of 96, is very ill with whooping cough at the home of her granddaughter in Springfield and her advanced age makes her recovery doubtful.

Ray Wesley Page of Torrington, Conn., has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Congregational church at New Haven and will begin his duties there the second Sunday in March.

William W. Godfrey of West Fairlee recently secured a fine specimen of a Canadian lynx, which weighed 13 pounds and measured 32 inches, from tip of nose to tip of tail. Mr. Godfrey is having it mounted.

Three hundred new books have recently been added to the library at Corventry, the gift of Riley E. Wright, most of them from his own private library. He also supplies the library with the Geographic Magazine and Travel.

Robert Day narrowly missed fatal injuries while sliding down hill in Ripon. On his sled he came in contact with Henry Eubank's team, sliding directly under the horses' feet. He was bruised and had a black eye as a result.

Talking up the best plan for erecting a tablet in Bradford in memory of World War veterans, it has been decided to place a large boulder on the northern end of the library grounds and have the tablet placed upon it. It is hoped to have the unveiling of this tablet take place on Memorial day.

The annual reports of the Middlebury trustees, just given to the public, show that the orders for expenditures during 1920 double the village's receipts. Matters brought to light by the reports of the various village officers are expected to cause somewhat of an upheaval at the annual village meeting to-morrow evening.

R. I. Pike slipped as he was rolling logs in Williamsville and one leg was caught between the skid and the head block, dislocating some of the bones and badly tearing the ligaments. Raymond Bemis, working in the woods in Athens, while skidding logs, was struck on the leg by a log, breaking one of the bones of his right leg and severely bruising the other.

George H. Graham, formerly of Springfield and now a real estate agent in Springfield, Mass., has bought of the New England Operating company the Adamsboro hotel in Springfield and assigned it to Charles F. Cosgrove, office manager for the J. T. Slack corporation, a concern running in Springfield the largest shoddy mill in the world. Oscar C. Miller, who has been landlord of the Adamsboro the last two years, will yield possession of the house April 1, and the new owner will at once take steps to put the hotel in position to sustain the reputation it has earned in previous years.

DIED AS RESULT OF FALL.

R. A. Norton Struck Head on Steps—Represented Huntington in 1910-11.

Romeo A. Norton of Huntington Center died Friday afternoon at 6 o'clock as a result of a fall that afternoon as he came out of his store. Mr. Norton, who would have been 70 years old had he lived until the next day, struck the back of his head on the steps as he fell with such force that he was made unconscious and never regained consciousness. He was a life-long citizen of the town and active in town affairs. He had been high balliff 21 years and deputy sheriff 16 years, a member of the legislature in 1910-11, and was appointed by the governor as assistant judge in 1918. He has held minor town offices. Since Jan. 1, 1920, he has been in mercantile business here. Mr. Norton was a very active member of the church and will be greatly missed in this capacity.

ALLEGED JUVENILE SWINDLER.

Worked Game on a Rutland Store and Was Caught.

Rutland, Jan. 18.—A juvenile case which came to the attention of the police yesterday shows that it does not always require a mature mind to pull off or almost pull off a swindle. In this case the slight difference in the color of the ink on two sales slips saved the Woolworth company from losing merchandise worth $5. The person alleged to be guilty of the attempt was Jennie Romano, 12-year-old daughter of Nicholas Romano of Meadow street.

Last Friday the girl went into the store and bought goods to the value of 15 cents. This amount was purchased on a card as the custom is in the store. When the girl approached the cashier's desk on her way out she said that she had lost her slip. A search of the store failed to reveal it so a duplicate was issued and the girl paid the 15 cents.

On Saturday Jennie again appeared at the store. This time she brought four pairs of stockings and other goods, the total value of which was $5. The amount was properly punched on her card but when she appeared at the cashier's desk she presented the 15 cent slip which she had hidden in her clothing and had claimed to have lost the previous day.

She would have carried out the swindle except for the fact that the Saturday slips were printed in a different color than those issued for Friday. The cashier noticed this and notified the manager. The girl was questioned and the evidence found on her person.

"For five long years, I was afflicted with Stomach, Liver and Kidney Trouble, which developed into serious Bladder Trouble."

I saw a testimonial of 'Fruit-a-lives' and concluded to make one more trial. By the time the sample box and a 50c. box were finished, there was grand improvement.

To make a long story short, I believe 'Fruit-a-lives' or Fruit Liver Tablets the best Stomach, Liver and Bladder Medicine the world has ever produced."

Fishing Through Ice a Popular Sport Near Brattleboro.

Fishing through the ice is furnishing great sport in Brattleboro and vicinity, pike, pickerel, bass and perch being taken in large numbers. The best picked fishing in southern Vermont is at the Somerset reservoir, which is between six and seven miles long and a mile across at the widest place, but it is so far back in the wilderness as to be almost inaccessible in the winter. Near Brattleboro the fishing is carried on largely on the overflowed meadows on the Vermont side of the Connecticut river. Each fisherman can legally set 10 traps, each of which is baited by a live minnow, and when fish are biting well the signal flags go up quite frequently. Two Brattleboro dealers have this winter been selling bait at three to five cents per minnow, disposing of 14,000 up to the present. Every day of good weather from a dozen to 75 fishermen can be seen operating on the six or seven miles of ice between the lower West river and the Vernon dam. Two hundred to 300 traps in operation at a time is not an unusual occurrence.

Wall-eyed pike, weighing more than seven pounds, have been caught, but the weight averages from one to four pounds. The great northern pike is also caught there and specimens have been caught that weighed 30 pounds. The largest one caught there last season weighed 29 pounds and the largest so far this season weighed 14½ pounds. Taken altogether, the catch has so far amounted to tons of fish.

Wins Sweepstakes Prizes.

At the dairymen's convention recently held at Burlington the annual butter scoring contest was held by the Vermont Dairymen's association. About forty samples of creamery butter were entered from the various creameries in the state. When the awards were made C. M. Story, buttermaker for the Orange county creamery at Chelsea, received the sweepstakes prize with a score of 97½ on the sample of butter entered by him. The prize is a beautiful loving cup bearing the engraved inscription "Vermont Dairymen's Association Sweepstakes, 1921." The competition in this contest is very keen, as the best buttermakers of the state strive to win the cup and the "bringing home of the bacon" by Mr. Story indicates that he is the highest rated buttermaker in the state. He has been given him for his ability as a butter maker.

Gaining Momentum

ORANGE COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Notes for Week Ending Jan. 16.

On Tuesday the county agent attended the annual corn show held by the students of the Vermont school of agriculture at Randolph Center. Judges from teams from the different classes were chosen and the exhibits of corn, small grains and potatoes were judged by them. Both individual and team prizes were awarded.

Arrangements were made for a meeting of the Randolph Cow Test association to be held on Saturday, Jan. 15, at M. M. Wilson's office in Randolph. At this meeting plans were made for the coming year and arrangements were made with the tester for continuing the work. A new contract was prepared for the members to sign for the coming year. H. E. Bromer, state supervisor of cow test associations, was present and assisted in the plans.

On Wednesday and Thursday the agent attended the dairymen's convention at Burlington. Orange county was well represented in the number of farmers who attended the convention. There was a large attendance at nearly all the sessions and the exhibits of farm and home machinery displayed in the university gymnasium annex was acclaimed by many as the best in the New England states.

The agent will be in Burlington nearly all this week attending the conference of extension workers of the state. On Friday the annual meeting of the State Farm Bureau federation will be held at Burlington. Reports of these meetings will be made in the February issue of the farm notes.

H. A. Dwinell, County Agent.

Soldiers' Home Wants $48,000.

The annual report of the officers of the Soldiers' home at Bennington has been made to the legislature, in which the trustees ask for the same appropriation as two years ago, namely $48,000. They call attention that the building should be painted, a new range is needed in the kitchen; fences about the farm need repairing; the building known as the farmers' building needs repairs. To meet these special expenditures they ask for $3,000 additional. There was $11,835.35 realized in farm products, to which is added sales amounting to $3,136.40. The net balance from the farm was $6,409.44.

The physician's report shows that on June 30, 1918, there were 15 in the home and 51 have gone to the hospital in the two years, of whom 26 have been discharged while 25 have died, leaving 15 under treatment at the home June 30, 1920.

The donations and gifts show Redfield Proctor gave $100 for Thanksgiving, on two different occasions, while the Relief corps, generally speaking, throughout the state, has given freely to the home or hospital.
